Transitioning from PhD to CEO

In this discussion-style talk, Dr. Shreya Dave will talk about her transition from PhD student to CEO of Via Separations. Transitioning from a research field to entrepreneurship – whether as a founder or as an early employee taking a bet on a new business – is an exciting extension of science, impact, and getting stuff done. Shreya co-founded Via Separations with her labmate and PI, and has since learned a lot of new vocabulary, led the team to field deployment of the technology, and barely stepped foot in the lab. From product-market fit to scientific development milestones, Shreya will cover what it's like to work at a climate-focused, science-based start-up.
